INTRODUCTION

In India, throughout the country, individuals are different from each other in terms of number of factors, i.e. caste, creed, race, religion, gender, age, ethnicity, educational qualifications, occupations, cultures, personality traits and socio-economic backgrounds. Within neighbourhoods, educational institutions of all levels, occupations, and in various types of employment settings, the individuals are different from each other in terms of all these factors. But they are required to work in co-ordination with each other. The individuals cannot carry out their job duties in seclusion (Sebastian, n.d.). They are required to communicate and work with other individuals as well. They need to augment their knowledge and understanding in terms of various areas and obtain solutions to various types of problems. Hence, they are required to work in integration. The individuals in this manner not only facilitate the implementation of tasks in an effective manner but also generate information in terms of each other's cultures and backgrounds. Therefore, integration of the country is an important concept, which needs to be understood by individuals, irrespective of their communities and backgrounds. The problems are an integral part of the lives of the individuals. These take place in personal and professional lives of the individuals in a major or in a minor form. The various areas in terms of which these take place are, job duties, responsibilities, methods, procedures, techniques, approaches, resources and so forth. The solutions can be provided on one's own as well as through working in co-ordination and integration with each other. The integration of the individuals provide solutions to various types of problems in an effective manner (Abhinav, n.d.). The individuals need to inculcate the traits of morality and ethics in their lives. These traits would enable the individuals to do well in their job duties, achieve desired goals and objectives in personal and professional spheres, form an effective social circle, enhance one's personality traits and lead to up-gradation of one's overall quality of lives. Putting into operation effective communication processes with family and community members would render an important contribution to recognize the meaning and significance of the traits of morality and ethics. Therefore, the individuals need to implement these traits throughout their lives in all areas.

With advancements taking place and with the advent of modernization and globalization, the individuals need to be well-versed in terms of the fact that in order to lead to progression of the individuals, communities and nation, the individuals need to work in integration. The integration will render an important contribution in promoting well-being and goodwill of the individuals, communities and nation as a whole. The individuals are making use of pioneering methods in the implementation of tasks and activities. Integration will facilitate in augmenting information in terms of these methods. The individuals need to augment their knowledge and understanding in terms of other cultures, food, clothing, festivals and so forth. The individuals, belonging to urban and rural communities from the viewpoint that they will be able to bring about improvements in their overall quality of lives, when they augment their knowledge in terms of various areas and cultures. It is of utmost significance for the rural individuals to integrate with the mainstream society in order to lead to their progression.
